To the Divest:Invest initiative

24th October 2015

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Margaret Hayman Charitable Trust, held on September 27th 2015, the Trustees made a unanimous decision to commit to the Divest: Invest initiative.

We made this decision conscious of the contribution of fossil fuels to the degradation of the environment, through climate change and other impacts, and in the light of our grant giving focus, which is to organisations working at the intersection of social justice and environmental degradation in low income countries.

Accordingly we are moving our investments into a bespoke fossil free portfolio, and will be looking for opportunities over the coming years to make investments in renewable energy that are consistent with our income requirements.
